Excerpt: .This proverb alludes to the windy weather which prevails at this period of the year; but whether Winnold, when in the zenith of his power and fame, was remarkable for an irascibility of temper, I really do not know. His day is the 3rd of March. This reminds me of the following charm for the ague, which should be repeated by the most ancient female in the family or neighbourhood, with her head as far up the chimney as conveniently it can be got, viz.: --Tremble and go! First day, shiver and burn; Tremble and quake! Second day, shiver and learn, Tremble and die! Third day, never return. I Easter day. The first line of this old saw is evidently a corruption of the Psalms, according to the Latin translation, beginning Te Deum, Mi Dens, and Miserere mei. Varia: --Tid, mid, et misera, Carliug,...
